Happy Holidays!

How was your Thanksgiving? Hope it was the beginning of a wonderful holiday season for you. As for me, it was a great day/weekend but I'm not even ready for the thought of Christmas, much less have a clue for gifts to make or buy. Maybe the inspiration will come soon.....

As for our chapter of Quilts for Kids, we had a very busy month of hospital donations since the flu season arrived and is affecting children under 2 years of age. We also had a few new residents at the shelters we serve. It wasn't a record month of donations, but close.

For the last month we have been wanting to donate quilts to kids in Florida affected by the hurricane, but couldn't come up with a solid contact at the other end. Then this week Janice B. who co-chairs the Suwanee workshop, met a minister from Peachtree City who is connected with the "Panhandle Hearts of Hope". They discussed the possibility of some of our quilts going down on the next truckload on December 10th. I'll be giving Janice any extra quilts we have and will report to you next month on the project. Our comfort quilts should give hope to the kids who have lost so much recently. It should make their Christmas more joyous.

So while you are preparing for Christmas or doing some early Spring cleaning, be aware that many of our quilt kits are still signed out and will be needed in the next couple of months. Please turn them in even if you have not finished them. We don't need to keep acquiring and cutting fabric if we were caught up to date.

Speaking of fabric, I want to thank all who have donated fabric, especially Marilyn S. We have such a great stash of kid's fabric now and will begin to cut those kits soon.

Oh, by the way, we are 3 quilts away from the number we donated for 2017. How much will we surpass 971? Stay tuned..... and Merry Christmas to all....
