September Workshops are Cancelled

While some quilt guilds are holding "outdoor" meetings, the churches who host our workshops have not opened up yet for us to come back. So if you have quilts to turn in or want more kits, let me know OR visit Georgia Sewing and Quilting or Quilt-n-Kaboodle. Addresses of these shops are located on page 3 of this newsletter.

So what's happening in your world? Hope that you are doing well and keeping busy. That's what we are doing here. Still piecing, quilting and working on the plans for my daughter's wedding. 42 days and counting and the To Do list is getting smaller.

I received a bridal shower invitation for one of our granddaughters who is getting married in November. Her quilt has been ready for months and I am so ahead of the game for once. See page 2 for a preview.

As for my gardening, it's done for. The whole yard has grown up in tall grass as my lawnmower is in the shop. It will take most of a week to get it back in shape when the mower is returned. Maybe by then the weather will be cooler. Wishful thinking, I know.

When you look at page 3 for the summary of our quilts donated in August, don't be sad. The kids are just not in the hospital or the shelters. It's a good thing. Our stash is building up and when flu season hits, we'll be ready. I picked up several quilts from the above mentioned Quilt Shops and Hall County Guild recently and will be checking again each month.

Lastly I will end with a reminder. Be sure to sign the Quilts for Kids label you attach to the back of the quilt. If you need labels for your donated quilts, let me know. I can either mail some to you or attach them when the quilts are turned in. Any quilt that I don't know who made it will get a label signed by "Grandma". And since most of us are grandmothers, it's the truth! The families do like to read your name on their kid's quilt. And it may be someone that you know.

Have a great Labor Day and enjoy September!

Parlor Party is the name of this pattern I chose to make for our granddaughter and her hubby to be. His family owns a nearby farm and they will live in an older house on the property and are decorating it in a farmhouse motif. This throw should look good on the back of their sofa in their living room.

There are only two blocks in the pattern so it was easy and fast to make. I love the neutral fabrics chosen for this kit and hope the newly weds will enjoy it for many years.
